

Early Childhood Services

Directory
2009 - 2010

About the Directory

The AISCA Early Childhood Services Directory was compiled by the Association of Independent Schools and Colleges in Alberta using information provided by the operators and by Alberta Education current logs of data. The directory lists all ECS operators in Alberta. To the best of our knowledge, all data is correct as printed. However, schools may have been inadvertently omitted or there may be inadvertent errors. Please advise AISCA at office@aisca.ab.ca of any errors so that we may make corrections.

About AISCA

Since 1958 it has primarily worked in a government relations capacity to help parents and non-government managed schools to deliver education to children through a wide range of schooling options. As a result Alberta has come to recognize the legitimate and complementary role that independent schools and private ECS operators offer in non-government institutions that serve well both students and society.

Alberta's School Act respects the indisputable right of parents to be the fundamental directors of their child's education and balances that with the idea of "the compelling interests of the state". Across Alberta we continue to see a wide range of choices and decisions for schooling programs that meet the publicly accredited educational requirements of the government.

All ECS operators participate in AISCA's umbrella services provided through the Designated Signing Authority (DSA) program. Teacher evaluators approved by the Registrar are assigned by AISCA's DSA Program Coordinator to evaluate teachers in independent schools and private ECS sites for their Alberta permanent professional teaching certificates. AISCA made the case that teachers or operators should not have to pay extra fees for the required evaluation services over and above what teachers in public jurisdictions paid. AISCA assists teachers and operators in processing various forms for initial certification required for teaching in Alberta's independent, private schools. These services are described on AISCA's website at www.aisca.ab.ca

AISCA's member schools and ECS operators include faith-based schools, schools with unique teaching approaches, specific academic programs or other types of tailored programs develop particular student interests and talents. Some schools deal primarily with special learning needs. All of these complement the options and programs available also in public and separate systems; the primary difference is in the governance models of the schools.

As AISCA moves forward into the future, we trust that we will be able to continue to facilitate communication and cooperation between the schools and the Government and its departments. The main purpose of the Association has changed little over the years. It continues to strive to create and maintain the social and political climate where parents involved with the independent school sector may exercise their obligations to educate their children with a reasonable scope of freedom so that the shared interests of parents and the schools they create continue to play a legitimate role in Alberta society through the students they serve and the missions to which their operators subscribe.
